

Health News

Video on demand

The Australian Health News Research Collaboration (AHNRC) has recorded over 23,000 health and medical related video clips from free to air Sydney television channels since May 2005. The work is funded by a 5-year National Health and Medical Research Council (NHMRC) Capacity Building Grant of $1.9M, which runs until 2013.

The video material is stored by University of Sydney ICT. The Health News project provides a more convenient method of accessing videos via the Internet. Health News provides streaming and download access to the AHNRC videos for approved researchers within and outside the University of Sydney.

The Health News system also provides:

- login and security;
- user management;
- streaming of video within the browser;
- the ability to download videos; and
- and search facilities to locate videos based on metadata provided by staff at the University.

Project Details

Start Date: December 2009

End Date: Q3 2010

Client(s): University of Sydney, University of Melbourne, University of Canberra

Website project funding: University of Sydney ICT

Technologies used: University of Sydney's 'Mediabank', client's EndNote database, Java, Tomcat, PostgreSQL

Related Links

<http://sydney.edu.au/medicine/public-health/AHNRC/>

University of Sydney ICT: <http://sydney.edu.au/ict/>

Intersect Australia Ltd
www.intersect.org.au

Level 12, 309 Kent Street, Sydney
NSW 2000 Australia

enquiries@intersect.org.au
T +61 2 8079 2500

For more information, please contact Rodney Harrison at:
rodney.harrison@intersect.org.au